Workshop description

Over time, we become experts thanks to our experience. We have arrived at deep understandings about a particular subject or experience – of life itself -- by showing up and doing the work. This book-planning workshop is for people who now want to pass along lessons learned to help others. There are many ways you can share your message – as a how-to book, self-help, memoir, business book or big concept book. Come imagine your nonfiction book into reality in this 3-part workshop series with certified nonfiction and memoir book coach Dinah Laprairie. By the end, you will know whether a book is your best way forward, a clear idea of your ideal reader, content ideas, and your first outline . This is a registered program with space availability for 8 participants.

" Myths and Mirrors Community Arts and Réseau ACCESS Network present art, storytelling, and discussion with Beehive Collective!

Beehive Design Collective is a wildly motivated, all-volunteer, activist arts collective dedicated to “cross-pollinating the grassroots.” Using giant, portable murals to deconstruct complex issues of globalization, climate change, colonization, and resource extraction, they strive to provoke discussion, raise hard questions, and share hopeful stories about actions big and small we can take to build a better world.

On SATURDAY, APRIL 5th, join us at the @gsplibrary Mackenzie Branch (74 Mackenzie St.) from 1-3PM, where Beehive Design Collective will lead an interactive discussion prompted by their giant portable murals. These massive pieces of art have traveled across the globe, sparking discussion surrounding social and climate justice, always in solidarity with local organizers and people.

More about Beehive Collective:

The Bees have spent over ten years developing an innovative and story-based education strategy that is shared through a variety of interactive, image-based presentations and workshops. They create collaborative, anti-copyright images for use as educational and organizing tools, and work as word-to-image translators of complex global stories, shared with them through conversations with affected communities.

Beehive Collective goes to big to-dos and small ones, too; classrooms of all kinds, college auditoriums and lecture halls, church basements, demonstrations, conferences, community spaces, coffee shops, galleries, punk houses, rotary clubs, backyard shindigs, and probably whatever else you throw at them. They enjoy working with all sorts of people; folks from many cultures and places, with diverse backgrounds and ways of understanding the world, and all varieties of ages.
